T. F. MORROW MURDERED

Shot to Death in the Byrd Hotel by Bill Nutt--Forty-five Colts Revolver Was Weapon Used.

Three Shots Were Fired, All of Which Were Probably Fatal--Jealousy is Said to be the Motive.

Last evening about seven o'clock, T. F. Morrow was shot and instantly killed while standing in the lobby of the Byrd Hotel on the corner of Twelfth and Townsend. Bill Nutt, of this city, was the slayer and the weapon used was a 45 Colts revolver. The deed was committed rather suddenly and very little excitement has prevailed, but the facts in the case as near as the News could ascertain from eye witnesses and friends of both parties are substantially as follows.

It appears that Nutt and his wife have had a bad understanding for the past several days, yet were boarding temporarily at the Byrd, as was Just at this instant Nutt entered the stairway door in the northeast corner of the building which opens on the street, coming in full view of his wife and Mr. Morrow. It is said that Nutt asked Morrow what in the hell he was talking to his wife about, at the same time drawing his gun and opening fire.

Three shots were fired, all of which took effect. The first shot entered the right arm about three inches above the elbow and passed entirely through the body, lodging in the skin on the left side. The second was fired before Morrow could move and entered the arm about three inches above the first and passed out over the right breast. When the second shot was fired Morrow turned to walk toward the dining room door but was met at the door by Mr. Rains and told not to enter. He then reeled to the left and entered the parlor door and as he did so Nutt fired the third and last shot which entered the right shoulder from the rear and lodged under the collar bone. Mr. Morrow then staggered through the parlor and into the dining room where he reeled and fell, gasping to the waiter, "I am dying."

After the shooting Nutt walked around the front of the hotel and turned west, attempting to enter the hotel from the south door to the parlor on Twelfth street but was stopped by Mr. Rains who demanded that he stay out. He then proceeded to the Collins livery barn just west of the Byrd, which barn he has rented and is operating, and there left his revolver with Roy Adair, the boy at the barn, and turned back toward Townsend. By this time he had been located and was met by Policeman Joe Foster and Deputy Sheriff Walter Goynne to whom he surrendered. When asked by Goynne why he had committed such a deed he stated that he found a d--scoundrel talking to his wife and killed him, or words to that effect, and was ready to surrender.

Nutt was placed in jail immediately, while the body of Mr. Morrow was removed to the undertaking parlors of L. T. Walters, Justice H. J. Brown summoned a jury of inquest who examined the body and rendered the verdict which appears below.

The Byrd Hotel changed management only last Saturday, Harry Parks having sold out to Mr. S. S. Rains & Son, prominent business men who had mercantile establishments at Tecumseh, Asher and McComb, Okla. They are practically strangers in the town and were barely acquainted with the guests at the hotel, and this affair, of course, was a great shock to the family. Mr. Parks was interviewed this morning and states that he is of the opinion that Nutt and Morrow were not acquainted, as Mr. Morrow had just recently inquired of him who Nutt was. Mr. Rains, the new manager of the hotel, states that Mr. Morrow was a jolly good natured fellow, attentive to business and a man of good habits, as far as he had been able to ascertain. He was employed with H. H. Fitzgerald & Co. as time keeper on the sewerage construction and was well liked by all the laborers and those citizens with whom he had become acquainted. He usually retired about nine or ten o'clock at night and arose early for business.

In the letter box at the hotel is a letter addressed to the St. George Hotel, at Bufala, which was written and placed there by Mr. Morrow only a few minutes before he was killed. On the upper corner of the envelope is written, "T. F. Morrow, Mill Creek, Okla."

Bill Nutt has been in this community for several years and is well known to the officials of this county, having been engaged in various difficulties at other times. He has a brother, Charles Nutt, who is a farmer living about two miles northeast of Ada. From the facts at hand those people who have been talked to attribute Nutt's crime to jealousy, as no other motive can be advanced under the circumstances.

Mrs. Morrow and baby, who reside temporarily at Mill Creek, were wired for today and arrived on the north bound Frisco, also a brother who resides at Connerville.

Coroner's Verdict.
STATE OF OKLAHOMA,
PONTOTOC COUNTY, SS.

On this 21st day of July, 1909, inquisition held at Ada in the said county on the body of T. F. Morrow, before H. J. Brown, Justice of the Peace of said County, the verdict of the Jury is as follows:

We, the Jury, duly impaneled and sworn to view the body of T. F. Morrow, having examined the body and witnesses, do on our oath say that the deceased, T. F. Morrow on the 20th day of July, 1909, came to his death by being shot with a pistol in the hands of Bill Nutt in Ada, Oklahoma, at the Byrd Hotel in said County and State.

The Right to Kill.

A few years ago, Bill Nutt, who yesterday evidently murdered a man in cold blood, was considered by his fellow farmers and by his acquaintances in the town as a citizen of fair character and honest intentions. While he was in a manner in appearance and demeanor of the wild west type, still it did not strike those with whom he associated or had business transaction that he was a bad or dangerous man.

Bill Nutt, through marriage had acquired the rights of Indian citizenship which afforded him a comfortable home, a good farm and substantial position in the community.

A year or more or less ago, Bill left his farm, moved to town, and became engaged in the livery business. Soon after he was associated with or standing by Charlie Brady, when in the dead of night, Brady is supposed to have killed the negro in front of the rock barn. Since that time Nutt has followed a dubious, if not a hazardous career, "Looking for trouble," appears to have been his motto. If one crossed him it required nice tact or absolute avoidance to save serious results. It is thought that Charlie Nutt, farmer, is a good citizen and a good friend; it is known that he has been bothered about his brother Bill lately, for he has urged his friends to see if they couldn't get Bill to let up on his wild and reckless ways.

Nutt has a great case of "unwritten law" on his hands, shooting an unarmed stranger full of holes because he had the temerity to inquire of his wife in the presence of others in the lobby of a hotel, whether she was going to the show.

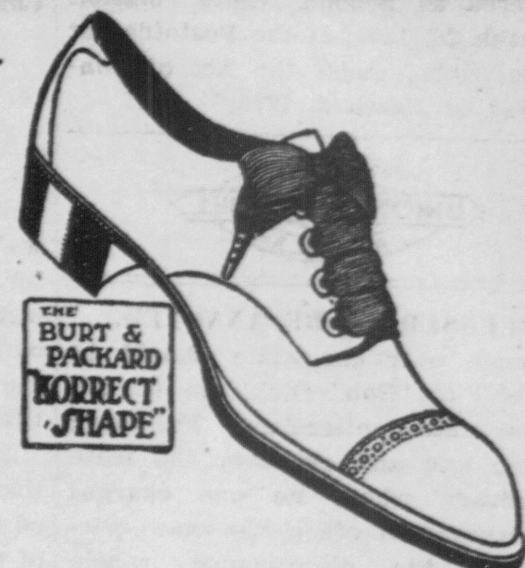

The unwritten law is of as pure origin as the ten commandments, but when invoked the foundation should be as absolute as God's righteousness, and the man who constitutes himself jury, judge and executioner, arrogating to himself not only the right to take life, but as well the privilege of destroying the honor of those of the blood of himself and the dead, unless he has led proper and sane life and has brains enough to distinguish between a wrong done the home, and the vaperings or a diseased mind abetted by a murderous heart, then his place should be the cell of the criminal insane or if too late the hell of the murder.

The crime of the murder last evening is emphasized by the agonizing walls of the murdered man's wife and relatives now piercing the distance two doors down the street as they cling to his remains.

Thus Ada's reputation for dark crime continues to grow apace.

What ever the consequences the chapter of murder and assassinations in this community should be closed.

CROP CONDITIONS ARE BETTER IN NEW STATE

RAIN BRINGS RELIEF IN MANY SECTIONS OF THE STATE.

Yet There Are Sections Where Crops Will Be Utter Failures.

The past ten days have been critical periods in the crop situation in Oklahoma, with relief in some sections and crop damage in others. In the north and eastern portions of the state rains have changed ruin into possibilities of a fair yield in the corn crop, but as a general proposition much damage has already been done, and what should have been a bumper year in the new state will be an average one when the full crop situation has been canvassed. In some sections of the state fruits have died on the branches because of the hot, dry winds. Likewise cotton and corn have been either utterly ruined or stunted so that it will give only a partial yield. In those places that have been visited by rains during the past five days the crops have been wonderfully benefitted, even to the extent that almost a full yield will be realized. Broom corn at this time needs rain. It is maturing. Also cotton is forming the bolls and will soon be ready to bloom. It is at this stage that moisture is necessary. Reports from several sections of the state will show the actual conditions.

THE GREAT NEED OF RELIABILITY

The work of the world is today so divided and sub-divided that we are all dependent in a thousand ways upon the care and knowledge of others. You may have the very best doctor to be found, but when he writes you a prescription, there his responsibility ends, to be taken up by the druggist. Have you a reliable druggist?

We can not speak for others in this matter, but we have a reliable, trained and experienced pharmacist to fill your prescriptions.

Mr. Morrow. The guests of the hotel had all finished supper and the family of Mr. Rains, the proprietor, was at supper when the shooting occurred. Mr. Nutt had previously left the hotel and gone down the street. At this time the only persons in the lobby of the hotel were Mr. Morrow, Mrs. Nutt and another lady, Charlie Goodwin, of Stratford, and Albert Smith, of Byars.

Goodwin and Morrow were in conversation and had stepped out on the paving, whereupon Goodwin suggested that they go down town. Morrow consented and told Goodwin to wait until he could go back into the hotel and secure his coat and a match. He walked back and put on his coat, then walked over to the counter for a match where it is stated that Mrs. Nutt was standing. It seems as if Morrow started a conversation with Mrs. Nutt by asking her if she was going to the show, at the same time bending over near her in an effort to reach the matches on the opposite side of the counter.

REFUSED TO BE ANNOYED.

People over the state should be thankful to "Bob" Dick, the warden of the state penitentiary. Following up the hue and cry over the state dispensary where no one charged malfeasance in office, the state partisans of the discontented rabble opened their batteries on Dick.

Naturally the "story" was made just as lurid as the libel laws would permit, and, being a new state, many well-meaning people became excited and hastily asked an investigation, says the Shawnee Herald.

Here is where Dick arose to the occasion.

He wasted no time along the "interview" path.

Not Dick; he of the pioneers who had heard the rattle of interested parties too often in the Indian Territory days to be alarmed.

Dick knew the record was straight.

He is, in addition to being awake,
a real warden, and knew the record was absolutely correct.

When called on for a "story," he notified the state whomsoever wished to investigate that the records were ready for inspection, and returned to his work.

Dick did not even take the time to wait for the boards to get through.
He gave them the books and the vouchers and went back to being warden.

Had some of the story writers for the agents of discontent known "Bob"
Dick as the people down about Ardmore way know him, it is safe to wager they would have wasted their pogons on some other individuals who holds office.

Fore and aft, from the top to the very bottom, if you please, Dick is a whole man, and one who rushes to cover no attack. Competent and honest, he is afraid of no criticism, and in his method and manner of paying no attention to the agitators can be found a lesson for officials who have done their duty and need not be annoyed by the barking of the fellows who were beaten away from the appointive pap by the ballots of the people.

Let us have more Dickism in Oklahoma; a little less attention to this bunch of caterwaulers who absolutely refuse to print the truth and prefer to manufacture their own stories being thus able to have the "story"
open and close according to the manner in which the ymost desire.—

NORRIS INDIAN INSPECTOR.

Chairman of Oklahoma Republican State Central Committee Sworn
In as Federal Official.

Washington, July 20.—Joe Lo Norris, chairman of the Oklahoma Republican State Central Committee, was today sworn in as Indian Inspector, vice Lewis Z. Dolby, who will resign on Aug. 1. His territory will cover California, Nevada, Arizona and the southern parts of Oregon and Utah.

In this connection it is announced that Herbert House, the secretary of the Republican Central Committee of Oklahoma, will be appointed a district Indian agent for the eastern part of Oklahoma. The Norris appointment is the largest plum which Oklahoma has received from the Taft administration. The Oklahomans had expected to get the Indian Commissioner's place for Mr. Norris, and failing in that, to get the Assistant Commissionership, but Secretary Ballinger objected to that program.

ATTACKS SUPERIOR COURTS.

Pottawatomie County Attorney Declares Law Creating Tribunal is Unconstitutional.

Guthrie, Okla., July 20.—Declaring that the law creating superior courts is in violation of the Oklahoma constitution and enabling act and that its provisions are unconstitutional and discriminatory, Frederick King today filed a petition asking for a writ of prohibition against Superior Judge Abernathy, of Pottawatomie county, to try a case transferred from the district court. Chief Justice Kane this morning issued a temporary writ returnable September 1st.

GORE SAYS REFORMS NEEDED IN CONGRESS

OKLAHOMA SENATOR ASSERTS
METHODS IN TWO HOUSES
SHOULD BE REVOLU-
TIONIZED.

Rhode Islander Is Master Spirit of Senate, He Says—Believes Taft
Should Use Veto.

Kansas City, Mo., July 20.—Thomas
P. Gore remarked over his breakfast this morning that he had a clean bill of health with reference to the tariff bill, and that from him no apologies were forthcoming. Without exception, he said, he had voted against every increase and for every decrease in the tariff schedules.

"I have party loyalty without party prejudice," the Oklahoma senator said. "I believe the friends of the monopolies voted for their interests regardless of party. Most of the people vote for party regardless of interests. There ought to be some way to convert the will of the majority into the law of the land. People who think alike should vote alike. The people who want the tariff revised should vote in congress to enact their sentiments into the statutes."

"We have got to revolutionize in some way the methods in the house and in the senate. The power has got to pass from Aldrich and Cannon so they will be responsible in some way to the people."

"Absolutely a few men run the senate; as I am not called on to identify them, I should say three or four.
But Aldrich is really the master spirit of the senate. He is like Joseph said about his dream—the sun, moon and eleven stars do obeisance to his star—the president, vice president and all the senate. In the house all the shields fall down and do obeisance to Cannon. Bills in the house and senate might as well begin, 'Be it enacted by the chairman of the finance committee and the speaker of the house of representatives.'"

"Aldrich places those men in the senate like puppets. He holds the cards in his hand. Of course, he deals to every man a hand that will permit him to win. Cold-decking the senate—that's what it is."

"I believe Taft ought to vote this tariff bill, but I doubt if he will. I believe Cleveland should have vetoed the Wilson bill, and I never will believe, until Roosevelt says so, that he would have signed this bill. Of course I believe in the three co-ordinate branches of the government; but the people loved to see Roosevelt beat and badger what they regarded as a recalcitrant congress. I believe, when he comes back and says he would not have signed it, and that Taft has signed it, there will be something doing."

MADILL PRISONERS ESCAPE.

Eight Get Out of County Jail by Working Ruse.

Madill, Ok., July 20.—Eight prisoners escaped from the county jail here last night about 11 o'clock.
There were eleven prisoners in the jail at the time, but three of them chose to remain. Following are the names of the prisoners who escaped:
J. F. Shears, charged with grand larceny; Ab Edgman, grand larceny;
L. W. Anderson, burglary; Jack Ivy, burglary; Dan Kennedy, forgery; C.
C. Duncan, burglary; Henry Hamilton, petit larceny; Dave Johnson, petit larceny.

The two last named are negroes.
Jim Sears feigned sickness and asked that Guard R. D. McDougall call a physician, which he did. On account of the extreme heat the prisoners had not been locked in their cells and when McDougall opened the door to the corridor to admit Dr. J. L. Holland, the prisoners rushed them aside and scaled the ten foot fence around the jail and so far have succeeded in eluding the officers. Sheriff Smith of Ada, Pontotoc county, came down to Madill on the noon train and brought his bloodhounds, but after several hours' work this afternoon with the dogs they failed to take up the trail. The door to the corridor was slammed to on Guard McDougall's hand, crushing it severely.

Jeff Davis' Daughter Dead.

Colorado Springs, Colo., July 20.— Mrs. Margaret Hayes, daughter of Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy, died here last evening after a protracted illness. The remains will rest in the family lot in the Richmond, Va., cemetery. The body will remain in a receiving vault at Evergreen cemetery here until fall,
and will then be taken to Richmond.
Many distinguished friends of the Davis family will attend the funeral.
Telegrams of condolence have been received from points throughout the south today.

PAYNE IS ANGRY; LEAVES CONFERENCE

BLOTS MEETING OF CONFEREES NOW SHAPING UP TARIFF LEGISLATION.

Reported That Fordney and Payne Almost Engaged in Personal Encounter Monday.

Washington, July 20.—Serenio Payne, chairman of the House Ways and Means committee, and one of the house conferees on the tariff bill, bolted the conference today. It is denied by Senator Aldrich and Representative Payne that the incident was in the nature of a belt. The details are based upon the interpretation of the word "bolt."

What happened was this: Serenio Payne whose reputation as a revisionist assumes luster when his bill is compared with the Aldrich bill, has recently made a few bold stands for revision as President Taft would like to see it. He went so far today as to offer to agree to reductions on the exorbitant rates of the house bill on gloves and hosiery if the senate conferees would agree to reduce the exorbitant rates on cotton goods in the Aldrich bill.

The conferees threw up their hands at the idea, and Serenio Payne, who has been repeatedly bowled over and trodden upon by the stand-patters, reached the end of his patience. Certain members of the conference committee say Payne observed that he did not see that he could do any further good if the conferees are not willing to give and take, and then left the room.

Senator Aldrich's version is that the conferees have reached a point in their deliberations where they can not proceed without further consulting their respective colleagues. At any rate the conference broke up suddenly, and when a Texas congressman, ignorant of what had just transpired in the conference room, met Payne coming from the room and asked him what the outlook is for early adjournment, Serenio Payne said in disgust:

"Very poor. May be here till Dec. 1."

Mr. Payne made a hurried trip to the white house. All three men were hutting the president, but Mr. Taft was at that moment seeking surcease of trouble on the golf links. Meanwhile the conference stands adjourned until tomorrow.

Serenio Payne, it developed today, has had a succession of clashes in the conference, the one nearest approaching a personal encounter occurring yesterday over the lumber rates. Representative Fordney the most radical stand-patter of them all, voted for the senate lumber rates, a proceeding which Payne denounced contending that the house conferees should at least make a pretense of supporting the house bill.

Fordney flared up in his most picturesque and effective English, and shook his fist at Payne, as he denied the right of the latter to talk to him like that. Then followed a few busy moments for the peacemakers, whose efforts prevailed, and all external evidences of the storm disappeared, until Serenio Payne got "clear off the reservation" today.

A short time ago Mr. Payne declared that although outvoted by the stand-patters in conference, he had still one resource open, and that was to refuse, in connection with two house conferees and the democrats, to sign the conference report. No one believed Serenio Payne could get his fighting blood up to such a point, but the belligerent mood of the chairman of the Ways and Means committee in the past few days indicates that he is getting worked up to a point where he might at least offer a good bluff.

MERCHANTS & PLANTERS BANK.

Substantial Citizens Officers and Directors Will Open for Business About August 1st.

Ada's fifth bank is now a reality, for the organization is perfected, the capital paid in and the charter secured.

The name of the bank is the Merchants and Planters State Bank and the officers are C. H. Rives, president; B. H. Mason, cashier; J. W. Davis and M. B. Donaghey, vice presidents; the directors are C. H. Rives, B. H. Mason, J. W. Davis, M. B. Donaghey and C. Y. Semple.

The location of the bank will be in will secure from the public a fair award of public confidence.

During Mr. Rives' engagement with the First National bank as vice president and substantial stockholder, much confidence was established that he possessed all the requisite qualifications for successful business undertaking and popular citizenship.

Mr. B. H. Mason, though a young man, was practically raised in the banking business at Appleton City, Mo., where his father directed the business of the pioneer and strongest bank of that section. Mr. Mason continues his connection with this old Missouri bank. Another strong financial concern with which he is associated as vice president is the A. B. Tull Loan and Investment Co. at Oklahoma City. Mr. Mason is a gen-

REPORT ON OFFICE OF AUDITOR COMPLETE

STATE EXAMINER AND INSPECTOR APPROVES REPORT.

Manner in Which Accounts Were Kept Discussed in Statement as Made by Deputy.

Guthrie, Ok., July 20.—Partial report of an investigation made by Col. Valentine, deputy state examiner and inspector of the affairs of the state auditor's office for the period between Nov. 16, 1907, Statehood Day and April 30 of this year, was given to the public today.

It is dated June 21, bears the approval of state examiner and inspector Taylor, and deals chiefly with funds appropriated by the first legislature and the expenditures made against them. The report gives a long list of warrants for money against the funds, to which the official calls attention, as lacking in detail or itemized statements showing how the money was spent. The Auditor's books, the report says, have been well and carefully kept.

Attention is also directed to various expenditures in connection with the state dispensary and prohibition enforcement, much of which was covered in the official review of the state dispensary, made during June. That report was the subject of investigation by a special committee named by Gov. Haskell soon after its details had been published. The special committee's report held that the "conclusions" of the State Examiner and Inspector had not been warranted.

After reciting that a number of warrants were drawn, payable to certain named officials, wherein the report says proper detail is lacking as to how the money was expended, the report adds:

"I can see no way in which the details can be arrived at, except through these parties personally. The law calls for the superintendent of the state agency to file with the governor monthly statements, and to file a copy with the state auditor. I find seven of these on file, but they show only general accounts for the month, the total expenses, salaries, inspector's expenses, enforcement and the like. Quite a few of these claims filed on attorney general's contingent fund show a lack of detail."

The report refers to an opinion from attorney general West, and which is made a part of it in full, in regard to money advanced to Superintendent Dick of the state penitentiary, where the attorney general held that the warden must give under oath a statement in detail, how every portion of the money was spent. Then follows a list of warrants drawn, to which the inspector calls special attention. The employment of detectives and operatives, appears from the report to have been liberally indulged in.

The report otherwise shows that appropriations made by the First Legislature and for deficiencies amounted to $4,166,305.08 of which $2,492,796.45 had been paid to April 30.

THREE HUNDRED ON STRIKE.

Laborers for Paving Companies Quit Because Wages Were Cut When Hours Were Cut Down.

Muskogee, Ok., July 20.—Nearly 300 laborers for paving companies struck today because their wages were reduced when their hours were cut down, and several hundred more are threatening to tie up all street construction work. Secret meetings are being held tonight to ascertain what action to take. The strike follows the visit of state labor commissioner Daugherty here last week. Mr. Daugherty insisted on the contractors cutting their men's working hours down to eight a day to comply with the eight hour law. The contractors signed the agreement and cut the price for labor accordingly. The workmen protested, declaring they would rather work nine hours and get more money. Thousands of dollars' worth of work is tied up.

SEVERE STORM ON GULF OF MEXICO

Messages from Galveston, Tex., indicate that much damage was done there today by a severe storm which set in on the coast in the forenoon. The wind reached a velocity of seventy miles an hour and several landmarks were blown down and some smaller vessels wrecked. No loss of life was reported but much excitement prevailed when it was reported that the water was likely to overflow the big sea wall around the city.

MISUNDERSTAND OF STATUTES.

Requirements Regarding Recognition of Corporations by Courts and Other Matters Explained.

Guthrie, Ok., July 20.—The secretary of state has a letter from Alabama showing that people of other states misunderstand Oklahoma's laws. The writer enclosed a newspaper clipping giving an account of a meeting held in Dallas at which a committee was appointed to investigate the Oklahoma law, as they supposed, imposing an annual tax on one-tenth of 1 per cent upon the capital stock of foreign corporations doing business here and requiring such companies to maintain a general office in Guthrie, the seat of government.

The law in mind is the Echols act of the second legislature and goes on further than to require foreign corporations, if they desire legal standing in the state courts, that is, to sue and be sued, to file with the secretary of state their articles of incorporation and receive a permit to do business in the state. The filing fee is fixed by another act at one-tenth of 1 per cent of their capital stock. In addition, the company is required to appoint a resident agent at the seat of government upon whom service may be obtained. If a concern wants to do business here without a legal permit, except where the laws specifically mention to the contrary, such as insurance companies, banks and other public businesses, there is nothing in the corporation laws to prevent it, but under such conditions it would have no standing in state courts. Neither do the corporation laws impose an annual tax of one-tenth of 1 per cent upon their capital stocks. Whether foreign corporations are liable to the state for an income tax is a question yet to be determined.

TO SELL FORT BUILDINGS.

Old Military Post Will Become Masons' and Orphans' Home in Near Future.

El Reno, Okla., July 20.—It is believed the sale of the grounds and buildings of Ft. Reno, one of the oldest military posts in the West, will be arranged for in the next few days, to pass into the hands of the committee locating the home for the aged Masons and orphans in the state. The locating committee visited the site Saturday and decided that it was the best location that could be found and will recommend to the grand lodge of the state that the site be purchased. The land and buildings had been appraised by the government at $78,000 and this city was given an option of thirty days on it. The option was held pending the decision of the Masons to select a site for the home. Ft. Reno was one of the first military posts to be established in the West, and in its time has entertained nearly all of the old army generals and officers.

WOULD MANDAMUS TRAPP.

Suit Against State Auditor Will Test Claim of Agricultural Board as to Contracts.

Guthrie, Okla., July 20.—Former Chief Justice Buford of the Oklahoma Supreme Court is preparing papers in a suit of the Cook Construction Company of Iowa against State Auditor Trapp for a writ of mandamus to compel payments on the construction of additional buildings at the Agricultural and Mechanical College.

The contract was awarded by the State Board of Agriculture, and in an opinion by Attorney General West last Saturday it was held that the Board of Public Affairs should award such contracts. The Agricultural Board claims a constitutional grant of power as a board of regents, and the mandamus case will test that as well as other questions involved.

Lightning Kills 19 Steers.

Bartlesville, Okla., July 20.—One of the severest losses during a thunder shower here was that sustained by Eugene Hays of Elgin, Kans., when he lost nineteen fat steers by a single stroke of lightning. The animals were to have been loaded for shipment to market. They were standing together in a corner of a fence when the bolt came. It hit the wire fence and the cattle had drifted against it. The whole nineteen toppled over together, dead. Nothing but the hides on about half the bunch were saved.

Never, Never Again

Angeline Gives Charles a Little Lesson

"Hello!" he cried. And as he entered the room he gave every evidence of being a worthy young man who was sure of his welcome, walking with a certain boisterous step and beaming till he shamed the sunbursts; but as for her, she sat in a chair reading a letter, and when she glanced up at him her gaze was cold and incurious.

"O," said she; "good evening."

"Good evening!" he said, stopping in his tracks and blinking his eyes; "good evening?"

"Yes," she said, glancing down again at the letter; "good evening."

"Why, Angeline!" he cried, "what is the matter?"

"Nothing," said she, "is the matter."

"Nothing?"

"Well, then!" he said. "Why—why don't you come and kiss your little tiddleywinks?"

And though his voice fell from the quaver of astonishment to the low notes of pleading, and though he stood with his arms thrown out and his head thrown back, and though he glanced down at her from an angle which had always ravished her heart before, she only gave him that cold and incurious look—a look which seemed to say, "Now I suppose there are some persons who might consider your attitude very fetching, but as for me, well, I think it is ridiculous—that's all."

Whereupon she returned to her letter, and when she had finished it she smiled a faroff smile of a dreamy quality and tore the letter into very little bits.

"Now, Charles," she said, "there are a few things I wish to discuss with you. In the first place, I cannot and I will not stand a jealous person!"

"But I'm not jealous!" said the astonished Charles.

"On the contrary," she said, "you are extremely jealous! Extremely so! Now, last night, because I spoke to Jimmy a few times, you showed such unmistakable signs of jealousy that I feared for the future!"

And as she remarked that she feared for the future, it was all she could do to hide the pride she felt at saying those fatal words, and she gave our Charles a look that plainly said, "There!—How's that?"

"I feared for the future!" she said.

"Yes, I feared for the future."

"But it was the way you looked at him," explained Charles. And Jimmy is engaged to Arabella, and she was watching you, too, and—"

"Charles!" she said. "Be careful! I warn you! Be careful!"

"Well, anyhow," grumbled Charles, "it was the way you looked at him."

"The way I looked at him?"

"Yes, the way you looked at him!"

"Why, how did I look at him?"

"You know how you looked at him!"

"Charles! I insist that you must not contradict me! It seems that you have taken umbrage—umbrage at the way I looked at James last night, and I insist that you show me how I looked at him."

"Well," said Charles (late Tiddleywinks), grumbling again, "you looked at him like this!"

"Do it again," said Angeline.

And Charles did it again.

"Then all I can say," said Angeline, "is that I must have been ill!"

"You didn't look ill," said Charles.

"I didn't?"

"No; you looked healthy!"

"Charles, are you trying to joke with me? Because, if you are, I wish to say that you are joking on a very serious subject—a very serious subject!"

"Aw, Angeline, don't take it like that. I'm awfully sorry!"

"Sorry!"

"Honestly and truly I am. You can look at Jimmy all you want to, after this, and I won't say a word!"

"Yes! And I suppose you'll run all around kissing Arabella like you did last night!"

And as for Charles, Charles looked equally earnest and guilty.

"Now I'll just tell you how that happened," he said. "She was mad and I was mad at the way we—" thought you looked at Jimmy, and when she got up to go and you kissed her goodby, I said, 'Don't I get one, too?' and first thing I knew—well, she kissed me!"

"O, she kissed you, did she?"

"Yes! Pucker her lips and kissed me!"

"Mm!" said Angeline.

"Why, I was never more surprised at anything in all my life!"

"Mm!"

"Why, you could have knocked me down with a feather!"

"Mm!"

"Of course, I was only joking, but when she took me up like that—!"

"Mm!"

"Angeline!"

"Yes, Charles?"

"Do you forgive me?"

"Will you promise me never to be jealous again if I forgive you?"

"Honestly and truly."

"And you'll never kiss her again?"

"O, never!"

"And never let her kiss you again?"

And just before a rapturous chirping arose and fell and rose again the hero of this tale whose name is Charles (and whose other name is man) cried out in loud and virtuous tones:

"I'll never, never, never let her kiss me again!"

HASKELL SAYS STATE WILL NOT WARN OFFENDERS

OKLAHOMA GOVERNOR DISCUSSES STATE EXAMINER'S REPORT.

Explains Why Names of Secret Operatives Seeking to Enforce State Laws Will Not Be Made Public.

Guthrie, Ok., July 20.—It would be the limit of imprudence for an official to make known how, and for what purpose, he was using a detective, if it becomes necessary to hire one for the state's good, is the answer Gov. Haskell made when asked about the state examiner and inspector's reports upon affairs of the state auditor's office given to the public yesterday. In connection with the remark the governor issued the following signed statement:

"I have not examined state inspector Taylor's figures and mathematical computations, but presume they are right, as he is an accountant and always contends for a technically perfect system of bookkeeping. There are certain expenditures for the public service which the legislative body properly concludes must be left to the discretion of the officer in charge, and therefore makes the appropriation accordingly.

"The fact that in my discretion I may have had $3,000 used in this work for the interest of the state without seeing fit to warn law offenders in advance, and that the Attorney General or Law Enforcement Attorney Caldwell may have spent state funds in like service without warning the law offenders in advance is no ground for criticism.

"I approve of what has been done by both the attorney general and by Mr. Caldwell and no amount of manufactured headlines in newspapers opposed to honest and moral government will have the slightest effect in inducing us to weaken our efforts by telling the law breaker in advance how he is likely to be run down.

"Some newspapers would serve their readers better if they would be guided by Taylor's figures rather than by their own imagination.

"One of the chief accounts referred to is shown payable to C. A. Lawler, who is the only one of the reputed secret service operatives submitted an itemized statement of the money spent. One covering $657.90 for expenses between Dec. 21, 1908, and Jan. 31, 1909, and according to the State Examiner's report paid March 23, 1909, was accounted for in this way:

"Telegraphing and telephoning, deman of pleasant personality and as cashier and substantial stockholder in the new Merchants & Planters Bank will be a factor in the commercial development of this section of great country.

Messrs. Donaghey, Davis and Semple are men of sound financial ability and claim many friends throughout the city and county.

This bank will open for business about August the first.

$9.30; railroad fare, $137.95; cabs, cars and automobiles, etc., $31.60; sleepers, $14; meals, $212.55; hotel, $209; laundry, $14.15, stationery, $3.25.

"The $5,000 fund appropriated by the legislature for examining old territorial accounts, according to the state examiner and inspector, out of which some detectives were hired, shows a balance of $90.32 unexplained."

POPULAR VOTE FOR SENATORS.

Proposed that Illinois Adopt Oregon Plan in Selecting Its Solons—Recent Deadlock.

Chicago, Ill., July 20.—When the Illinois legislature meets next fall in special session to draft a new primary election law, a strong fight will be made to obtain the adoption in Illinois of the so-called Oregon plan for the election of United States senators.

This plan is for the direct election of Senators by the people. While revision of the national constitution is necessary to obtain direct popular election of senators, the Oregon plan may be adopted by Illinois and put into effect at once without any constitutional tinkering.

All over Illinois there is a conviction that steps must be taken to prevent a repetition of the senatorial deadlock which demoralized the legislature last session.

COALGATE COURIER QUITS.

Newspaper Which Has Represented Four Political Parties Stops Its Press.

Coalgate, Okla., July 20.—After running without actual interruption for the past thirteen years, the Coalgate Courier, which has in its time been democratic, republican, socialistic and prohibitionist, this week flickered out and the plant is now offered for sale to who will buy, any old way. Up to three years ago it had always been democratic, then the republicans took it. It finally failed on account of poor support, then the socialists got control. That didn't last long and the temperance people gave it a trial. Coal county is made up mostly of miners of foreign nationality and prohibition could find no ardent supporters there. So the paper, after thirteen years of a storm-tossed career, gives it up.
